Re Community Reinvestment
RIN number 3064-AC89

Dear Sir:

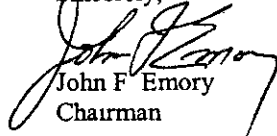

As a community banker, I am pleased to comment in support of the proposal issued by the FDIC that would amend the definition of a small institution to be a bank that is under $1 billion in assets. I believe that this change will provide much needed regulatory burden relief for me and other community bankers. It seems that every week there is a new or additional regulation with which we must comply. This is one example of regulatory burden relief that will really make a difference. I would much rather use the limited resources available to my bank to serve my community than to collect and maintain data and documents to prove to examiners that I am meeting the needs of my community.

Community Trust Bank is a $400 million dollar community bank that has been serving the communities of North Louisiana for over ninety years. This year we were honored with the YWCA Focus on the Family Award. This award was given for our leadership in the Financial Empowerment Program. Our 180 employees know how important it is that we stay active in the communities where we live and work. As it is written in our mission statement, "We strive to reinvest resources, capital, and individual time into the communities from which we profit because we are dedicated to the long-term prosperity of the communities we serve."

Compliance with the Community Reinvestment Act is something we take very seriously at our bank. We do not just believe it is the right thing to do; we believe it is the right business thing to do. No community bank can survive and compete without meeting the needs of its customers and communities. We believe in our community and in our customers and want to work with them to provide products and services that best meet their credit needs. We do not need a complicated examination process to show that we are complying with the law.

It is absurd to think that a bank thousands of times larger than my own community bank should be examined using the same procedures. I strongly urge you to amend the definition of a small bank for CRA purposes to be an institution with less than $1 billion in assets, regardless of whether the bank is part of a holding company. This is a good proposal and is the right thing to do. Thank you for considering my views.

Sincerely,

John F. Emory
